THE NEW LOOK FOR '74—According to recent reports the day of the old wood burning stove is coming back. The present fuel shortage has caused a spate of requests for wood stoves, merchants report, presumably to be used when gas and electric appliances are no longer feasible. Oldtimers claim there is nothing better than a pot of coffee brewed on a wood stove, and its also a great place to warm your feet and hands, when the furnace is low!

Waveland Special Mayoralty Election Set For Feb. 9

Waveland Board of Aldermen adopted a resolution Wednesday setting up a special election to fill the unexpired term of office of former Mayor Garfield Ladner who died in office Dec. 11.

The special election will be held Feb. 9, 1974 in accordance with the 1972 Mississippi Code which stipulates that an election must be held to fill any vacant office with an unexpired term greater than six months.

In accordance with law, a public notice of said election will now be posted in three public places and published in the local newspapers.

The late mayor's term of office will expire on Dec. 3, 1974. To date only one candidate has made known his intention to run for the unexpired term. That is John Longo, appointed by Mayor Ladner in December 1966 to serve as mayor pro tempore.

The board also approved a motion to petition the Louisville and Nashville Railroad to restore commuter service to the area in view of the current energy shortage, following the example of the cities of Biloxi and Bay St. Louis.

Copies of the petition will be sent to Governor Bill Waller and William Simon, head of the President's energy commission.

The board also heard a report from city engineer Clarence Evans recommending that the city pay $90,219.23 to Byrd Construction Co. as October-November payment for sewage line work in the city.

In response to an appeal from Fred Fisher, president of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club, the board voted to pledge $500 annually to the Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

In other business the board voted to increase fire insurance on the city fire's house from $12,000 to $18,000 annually on the recommendation of Merchants Insurance Co.—appointed Laura Miller to the Zoning and Planning Board and reappointed Charles Dickson, Ray Gordon, Lester Revery Jr. and James DeBlanc to new four year terms.

Went on record in support of the 1974 proposed state Emergency Medical Services Act which is designed to bring some $7 million in federal funds into the state through certification programs for ambulance attendants, and standardization of equipment and vehicles.

New Years Eve Schedule Told

According to the statement of William Harris, Sectional Center Manager, area Post Offices will provide the same services on December 31 as are provided at each office on Saturdays during year.

Window service until noon will be available; city and rural carries will make delivery of all mail received those mornings and the collection of mail from street boxes will be on Saturday schedule.

Holiday Schedule

In observance of the holidays, Echo offices in Bay St. Louis and Long Beach will be closed Monday through Wednesday next week. Deadlines for Jan. 3 issue will be the preceding Friday at 5 p.m. The Echo extends holiday greetings to all its readers.

Supervisors Will Consider Lead Applicant Contract

A contractual agreement naming Hancock County as the lead applicant for a facilities master plan to include Bay St. Louis and Waveland was submitted to county supervisors Friday by George Williamson, representing de Laureal-Engineers, Inc.

In addition, Williamson submitted a separate resolution for board adoption which reiterated terms of the contract appointing de Laureal, as the county's engineering firm, "in association with the engineers designated by Bay St. Louis and Waveland (to) prepare an application for submittal for said funds and to provide all engineering and other services required..."

The agreement is patterned after one adopted by the boards of supervisors of Harrison and Jackson counties which designates the two counties as joint applicants for one area master plan, Williamson said.

Robert Genin, substituting for the county attorney, questioned wording on both documents which he said were ambiguous and didn't specify that the contract was to perform a required 201 study nor what compensation would be expected by the firm for the described work.

The two contracts should be combined and be made more specific, Genin told the board. After a short discussion of the matter Genin was directed to rewrite the resolution describing the implementation of the study in more detail to be submitted at the next board meeting for consideration.

A Dec. 18 meeting held at the court house brought together officials of both cities and Hancock county to hear advice from representatives of the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Comm. on procedures necessary for federal funding of sewer systems.

Engineering firms as well as attorneys for both Waveland and the Bay attended the meeting but de Laureal was not represented. Friday Williamson said he had not been notified of the meeting and would have attended had he known.

Monday's Choice Dropped Thursday

In a meeting which lasted less than ten minutes Thursday night, Port and Harbor Commissioners rescinded a resolution made at a Dec. 17 special meeting then immediately adjourned without conducting any further business.

The resolution, recommending Stephen Smith for the position of Port and Harbor director, was made during an executive session of the commission Dec. 17. Smith is one of 19 applicants for the position vacated by Dr. Michael Smith's resignation October 31.

Although details of the Dec. 17 meeting, including the open portion, were refused to the press, a county supervisor and a member of the commission, both of whom attended the two meetings, said that five commissioners voted in favor of Smith, one abstained and one voted against. Three supervisors were allegedly against the appointment and two in favor.

At a Friday meeting of the board of supervisors acting Port and Harbor director Wilson Webb submitted a list of resolutions for board approval but no mention was made of an alternative selection for the position of director.

Mayor Warned Of Possible Legal Action

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver admitted Friday that he had been contacted by officials of Burk & Associates, Inc., New Orleans engineering firm recently retained by the city, over portions of a message that was distributed to members of the city council at its last meeting Dec. 17.

Carver said that the firm had requested a hearing with members of the council and informed him that he might be in line for possible legal action because of defamatory remarks made at the council meeting of Dec. 17.

"The head man called me," Carver said, "and asked to be heard at a council meeting, and I said I wouldn't have any objections to that. So they're going to be here for the Jan. 21 meeting of the council."

The furor began mid-week after effects of the mayor's message began to filter down to the parties concerned. In his message Carver stated "an engineering firm of apparently questionable ability has been employed to design and engineer public works projects for the city of Bay St. Louis that will run into millions of dollars." The projects in question are an extension of the present sewage collection system and new treatment plant; a public pier and recreational facility; and street hard-surfacing and drainage projects.

Carver said in his message that he had been informed by several persons familiar with the firm's record of past failures.

"Within the past two weeks more specific information concerning this firm has come to my attention. I personally viewed a drainage project at the Pass-Christians Industrial Park site which later was abandoned after its completion because it proved to be grossly inadequate to perform its designed purpose."

Carver also made mention of a project at Jackson Ridge Park for which he said the firm was paid $20,000 for topographic maps of the area which proved to be entirely too sketchy and entirely inaccurate.

Friday Carver said that he had not made any charges that he could not support, and said that he felt a duty to the citizens of the city to speak out.

Carver said that before giving the commissioners a copy of his message he had talked with the state Bureau of Recreation and with the State Parks Commission and had actually viewed the Harrison County project personally.

"I talked to the people up in Jackson," Carver said, "and read to them what I intended to put into my message, and they assured me that my information was correct."

Carver said that he had also had his own attorney go over contents of the message with him before he delivered it to the council and had actually changed some of the wording and contents, that he had also had his own attorney go over contents of the message with him before he delivered it to the council and had actually changed some of the wording and contents.

He said he planned to take no further action until after the Jan. 21 meeting.

"I think I will just wait to see what develops out of this meeting," he said.

Breland Accuses Supervisors Of Road Work Interference

General contractor Don Breland bit back at Hancock county supervisors Friday after he was put on the carpet for lagging revenue sharing road repair work.

The main point of contention brought at a board meeting appeared to be a section of Central Ave. situated in beat five. County engineer Larry Seal told the board that Breland had promised to complete work by November 15 on several work orders issued July 5, but that progress on those jobs was unsatisfactory and some were still not completed.

Beat five supervisor James Travira stated that he felt Breland was never going to accomplish the work he had contracted for and "the sooner the board realizes that the better". Travira suggested the board take the work away from Breland and giving it to another contractor.

Breland argued that he was prevented from working on the Central Ave. job by certain of the supervisors who told him not to start as he may not be paid for the work.

Robert Genin, substituting for ailing board attorney Sam Favre, hotly rejoined that if Breland was given a work order and it was not officially rescinded then he was liable to complete the work. Once completed satisfactorily then the board is liable for payment, Genin said. The contractor has no legal recourse to demand payment if he doesn't do the work, Genin told Breland.

Breland continued to insist that "some of the supervisors" kept interrupting the work and he was not to blame for the problem. He was "d----- tired of being put in a bind" over the board members personal differences. Breland said angrily. At that point the board agreed to hold the matter of payment on the Central Ave. job until the Jan. 7 meeting, pending a compilation of beat five revenue sharing allocations.

Later Breland told the Echo reporter that at an earlier meeting with Oscar Peterson, Jerry Ladner, H. "Bully" Zengering and A.A. "Dolph" Kellar he was told that he should not start on the Central Ave. job until the board could get the division of revenue sharing funds straightened out. Kellar did not enter into the discussion, Breland said, but the other three said they felt Travira had gotten more than his share of early allocations and there probably wouldn't be enough money to cover payment for Central Ave. Later, Breland said, Travira assured him that if he did the work he would get paid.

Turning to a related matter, board members entered into a discussion of division of funds to cover court house renovations, estimated at several thousand dollars. Oscar Peterson expressed reluctance to using any of his revenue sharing money on the court house project, causing Kellar to admonish the board to exercise caution in future spending on roads.

He said, "I don't think its fair for one member to spend 70 percent of his revenue sharing money on beat roads and the other four to have to come up with a portion of theirs for the court house." After some further conversation, a decision was reached to meet with architect Fred Wagner January 8 on the matter.

Youths Safely Recovered After Five Hours In Bay Marsh

Two 17-year-old youths were safely recovered after spending several hours in the Bay of St. Louis marsh after the boat in which they were riding sank Thursday morning.

Before dawn Thursday with temperatures in the 30's, Jimmy Monasco, 103 Benton Dr. Long Beach, and David Borzik, Rt. 1, Box 643, Gulfport, set out on a hunting trip.

The youths were en route to a duck blind on Grassy Point at the north end of the bay. When the youths reached the mouth of Wolf River, the 14-foot aluminum boat they were riding in began to fill with water.

Borzik said they started bailing but were unable to keep up with the leakage. At this time the boys got out of the boat and waded to shore pushing the boat with them.

They decided Borzik would go for help and Monasco would try to paddle the boat back. According to Borzik, he watched Monasco paddle the boat out. When Monasco was forced to get out of the boat as it sank a second time, Borzik started walking through the marsh to get help.

About 10 a.m., Borzik reached the residence of James Yeager in DeLisle Harbor Estates where he received dry clothes and contacted the Harrison County Sheriff's Department.

Joe Seal of the Mississippi Boat and Water Safety Patrol was the first to arrive at the scene. Seal took Borzik with him to search for Monasco who was rescued shortly after noon after spending about four hours in the marsh.

Seal and Borzik discovered Monasco walking along the bank between Grassy Point and the mouth of Bayou DeLisle. According to Hancock County Civil Defense Director Donald McIntyre, the two had difficulty reaching Monasco because of the shallow marsh area.

Other personnel responded to the call and launched a full-scale search of the area. They included men from the sheriff's department, Harrison and Hancock County Civil Defense and a Coast Guard helicopter.

Monasco and Borzik were taken to Gulfport Memorial Hospital where they were examined and treated for exposure then released.

Haas To Head OLG Council

MICHAEL HAAS

The Parish Council of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church at its annual election meeting held Thursday at the Parish Hall elected Michael Haas, local attorney and civic leader, president of the council.

Elected vice-president was David Treutel, local homestead executive, and Doris Carrio was re-elected secretary of the church organization.

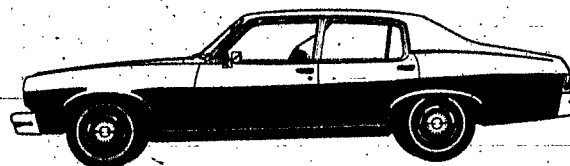

Also the following recently elected members of the Parish Council were seated at the election meeting for a two year term: Pat Murphy, David Treutel, Father Daniel Gallagher, Robert Genin, Jr., Susan Ryan, Fred Cabell, Mrs. Lawrence Jacobi, Mike Ryan, James Chiniche, Doris Carrio, Brother Pierre St. Pierre and Nelius Favre.

Retiring President Joseph Benvenuti expressed his appreciation to members of the Council for their cooperation and support.

Pollution Merry-Go-Round

(Ed. Note: This is the fourth and final chapter in this special series by staff writer Dan Barber on current pollution problems besetting the Gulf Coast area.)
SEWAGE PROBLEMS GREATER ON COAST THAN INLAND
By Dan Barber
Echo staff writer
Disposal of sewage on the coast has become somewhat more of a public problem than disposal of the same sewage inland. The relatively high water table in this particular area makes the use of septic tanks practically ineffectual. There is very little natural drainage due to the flat marshy area. Ground water is not saturated and waste effluent does not percolate. As a result the ground here does not have the natural cleansing properties that you might find elsewhere.

For many years disposal of sanitary waste has been a problem all along the coast. Sanitary sewage is commonly considered to be the same as domestic sewage. It includes all of the domestic sewage but may also contain much, if not all of the industrial wastes of the community. During the major part of the last decade, pollution control fell under the responsibility of the Mississippi Department of Health. This agency was charged with the major burden of policing pollution control, though they will be the first to admit that there was anything but strict enforcement of pollution

Not Too Late To Contribute To Christmas Seal Drive

The 1973 Christmas Seal Campaign being conducted by the Hancock County Chapter of the Mississippi Lung Association has not been completed, according to an announcement made by Mrs. Elda Duke, County Chairman. "All citizens are reminded that it's not too late to make a contribution to the 1973 Christmas Seal Campaign. Response to the current campaign from contributors already responding has been exceedingly generous. However, there are many persons who have not answered their Christmas Seal letter. We hope to receive additional contributions from many contributors during the last two weeks of December," Mrs. Duke reported. "Every dollar received will provide additional 'ammunition' for county and statewide programs of emphysema, tuberculosis and other respiratory disease control during the coming year. Each and every volunteer member of our 'Christmas Seal Chapter' are depending on Hancock County citizens not yet responding to their Christmas Seal letter to make a contribution during the closing weeks of this year's campaign in order that our projects and activities can be continued and expanded in 1974," Mrs. Duke continued. handle a million and a half gallons of raw sewage per eight hour day and could be operated on a 24-hour basis. The outflow of the plant will be more than 90 percent pure after treatment and will be of a superior quality than the water it is dumped into. Other things being done by the state and federal government to upgrade pollution control is to offer certification programs for sewage plant operators. Although the program is presently not mandatory, it is federally funded and eventually will become compulsory when the supply of operators catches up with the demand. It has been computed that the present volume of Waveland's sewage is no more than 550,000 gallons. EPA standards required the plant to be designed so that it could handle the million and a half gallon capacity. It is this fact that leads even the most casual observer to deduce that EPA officials are taking a close look at trying the sewage system of the city of Bay St. Louis into the Waveland plant. The present volume of Bay St. Louis is currently close to a million gallons a day. The Waveland facility is also designed with a 24-hour retention capacity which means that the plant could collect and hold sewage over a 24-hour period before running it through the plant. Treatment time is approximately four hours.

Clarence Evans, resident engineer for the city of Waveland, stated that the city would retain all their sewage during the day and through the night and operate the plant early in the morning—bleeding the treated effluent out into Edwards Bayou a little at a time instead of dumping it all at once into the bayou. "What we are eventually moving toward," he said, "is a zero effluent system, where all the effluent is steamed away and you are left with only a brown powder residue that is highly sought after by farmers as fertilizer."

The Waveland treatment plant will cost a total of $1,181,000 while the collection system will run another $2,225,000. The plant will be completed and operational around January 1975.

When completed the plant will be almost 100 percent automated and will have complete automatic quality control. It will be one of the most modern plants anywhere in the Southeast.

Clean air and clean water have suddenly become not only the concern of a few people but of vital interest to our towns, cities, counties and country as a whole.

Miss. Low On Welfare Need Scale

Mississippi is one of five states whose eligibles in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children cases did not exceed the three percent tolerance limit established by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Max M. Cole, commissioner of the Mississippi Department of Public Welfare stated today.

"This further illustrates the soundness and integrity of Mississippi's Public Welfare Program and is an example of the dedication of public welfare employees who take seriously the responsibilities of determining eligibility for our AFDC recipients, thus assuring the taxpayers of Mississippi of the adherence to a quality program," Cole commented.

Even though overpayments in Aid to Families with Dependent Children exceeded the tolerance limit of five percent by 3.6 percent, Mississippi had the lowest percentage of overpayments in the Southeastern states. The state has eighteen months to bring this in line before loss of federal funds, Cole explained.

Commissioner Cole praised the department staff in their endeavor to limit overpayments but recognizes that more work remains to be done. One step taken to correct overpayments has been the insertion of notices in the welfare checks each month to report any change in income or resources to the county offices since the department does now have adequate staff to determine continuing eligibility each six months as required by the department of HEW.

According to Commissioner Cole, the error rate drops with sufficient staff. "Hopefully the next step to correct these errors will be more staff to handle our heavy caseloads," he concluded.

OUTSTANDING SERVICE AWARD is presented to J. W. Watts, right, of Bay St. Louis, by Coast Electric Power Assn. General Manager Henry Thomas. Watts received the award, the highest honor bestowed on a Coast Electric employee, at a recent gathering of directors and employees.

Bentsen And Wakefield To Speak At Conference

Dr. Robert L. Robinson, executive director of the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board announced today that Senator Lloyd Bentsen, Jr. (D-Texas) and Stephen A. Wakefield, assistant secretary of Energy and Minerals with the Department of Interior will be featured speakers at the National Conference on Tourism and the Energy Crisis to be held in Jackson, Mississippi on January 8-9, 1974.

The conference is co-sponsored by the State of Mississippi and the Southern Travel Directors Council in cooperation with the Discover America Travel Organizations Inc. It is billed as a two-day working session to assess problems caused by the energy crisis and to find solutions to the problems.

Bentsen is assigned to two of the Senate's major standing committees — Finance and Public Works and to the Joint Economic Committee. He serves as Chairman of the Public Works Subcommittee on Transportation.

He is also a member of the Joint Economic Subcommittee on Economic Progress, Inter-American Economic Relationships, International Economic Fiscal Policy and Urban Affairs.

Senator Daniel Inouye (D-Hawaii) has previously been announced as a featured speaker at the conference. He is Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Foreign Commerce and Tourism.

Robinson said, "The conference is a clear example of how Mississippi can assume national leadership in a time of crisis."

"Mississippi is on the edge of a giant economic boom. We can not allow the current energy crisis to steal our chance for prosperity and growth in the years ahead," said Robinson. "The energy shortage must in fact make our people more resolved to work for success."

"Tourism is important to Mississippi and to the nation and one reason we're having this conference is to learn how we can keep our tourist industry despite the energy shortage," said Robinson.

Mississippi Governor Bill Waller has said the conference will be a two-day workshop designed to find positive solutions to problems caused by the energy crisis.

Watts Honored By Coast Electric Co.

J. W. Watts of Bay St. Louis received the Outstanding Service Award from the Coast Electric Power Association at a Dec. 14 gathering of Coast Electric directors, employees and their wives. Presentation of the award was made by General Manager Henry Thomas.

The Outstanding Service Award is the highest honor bestowed by Coast Electric upon an employee. It signifies service beyond what is normally expected of an employee in the performance of his duties and effort expended in the best interest of the Association, its members and fellow employees.

Watts began his employment with Coast Electric on April 25, 1945, obtaining rights-of-way and easements. In 1948 he was promoted to Operations Superintendent, with responsibility for all outside operations and engineering. More recently his duties have been confined to that of Safety Coordinator, with responsibility for OSHA compliance, the handling of transportation, communications and serving as Special Advisor to the General Manager.

In presenting the Outstanding Service Award on behalf of the directors, members and employees, Thomas stated, "Coast Electric has been fortunate in having a person like Mr. Watts, who has guided, directed, aided and assisted almost every employee of the Association."

Watts is known throughout Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River Counties, and enjoys statewide recognition. He was married to the former Virginia Chapman, now deceased, and they have three sons, James W. III, Houston, Texas; Alfred, Albuquerque, New Mexico; and Richard, Jamaica.

Social Security

How, When, Where To Apply

Social Security offices are now taking applications for Supplemental Security Income even though they will not begin making payments under this new program until January 1974. By taking applications now we are trying to avoid a "rush" in December and January.

Only those who feel they may be eligible but are not now receiving old age pensions or aid to the blind and disabled need apply. Those already receiving assistance under present State programs mentioned above DO NOT need to apply with social security. They will be automatically transferred to SSI January 1974 if they receive a state check in December.

If you plan to apply for SSI, we suggest a phone call to your social security office at 896-1323. The people there will be glad to advise you about information and records you will need to furnish. When applying you must give information about all income you may have as well as a description and value of all property and other assets you own.

SSI is a new Federal program of cash payments to those in financial need whose income and resources are below amounts set by law. Those who receive SSI must also be at least 65 years old or blind or disabled in addition to having limited income or property.

Those with immediate financial need should continue to contact their local welfare office until social security begins SSI payments.

Several years ago only a few people realized what their social security program was all about. Today, "social security" is almost a household word. Workers and their families have become much better informed about social security benefits through a variety of sources including newspaper articles such as this one.

Now the Social Security Administration is responsible for administering a new Federal program—Supplemental Security Income. Walter H. Hobbs, District Manager Gulfport, Ms. states that social security officials are eager for people to become familiar with the provisions of this new program.

Basically, the supplemental security income program will provide supplemental income to aged, blind, or disabled persons who are in financial need and have limited resources. Persons who qualify can receive a monthly check of up to $130 a month for one person and $195 a month for a couple.

Persons who think they might qualify should call the Gulfport social security office—telephone 896-1323, according to Walter H. Hobbs. The office is located at 02015 Pass Road, Gulfport, Ms. Mr. Hobbs also stated that individuals receiving state assistance because of age, blindness, or disability do not have to apply for the new program. If they receive a state check in December they will automatically receive their first Supplemental Security Income check in January.

If the idea of someone setting fire to a forest burns you up, do something about it.

May we chime in with our best wishes for the New Year to you and yours from all of us at...

Hire The Handicapped

The Hire the Handicapped National Poster Contest is being sponsored in Mississippi this year by the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, the Craftsmen's Guild, according to an announcement from Charles B. Ryan, chairman of the Governor's Committee, Mike Ogden, director of the M.A.A., and R. David Overly, president of the Craftsmen's Guild.

The President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped and the American Veterans (AMVETS) sponsor the contest on the national level, and offer a $1,000 cash scholarship in two categories: high school students in grades 9 through 12, and undergraduate students in colleges, junior colleges, universities, and technical schools. A $100 cash prize for hotel and meal expenses, and a round-trip air fare to Washington, D.C., to the annual meeting of the P.C.E.H. in the spring, where national prizes are awarded, will also go to the national winners.

Deadline for entries in the state is February 1, and should be made through the Mississippi Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, Box 1698, Jackson, MS 39205. Information regarding the rules of the contest may be obtained from the same address.

Ogden and Overly emphasized the fact that this contest is an opportunity for art students in the state to become known nationally, as well as giving them an opportunity to become involved in the campaign to hire handicapped workers in the state.

County Agent's Notes

John W. Smith, County Agent

TIMBER
Surveys show that the demand for timber products may double in the next 30 years. We can meet this demand and double our timber production in this length of time, but it is going to take some doing.

Right now, our forests are only producing at about one-third capacity. Some of the reasons for this low production are:

Stands are understocked with desirable species, too much of the forest is occupied by undesirable or cull trees, lack of protection from fires, insects and diseases and improper harvesting practices.

Some foresters have estimated that we have 12,000,000 acres in the state that need cull tree removal. Much of the cull tree material could be used at a profit. We also have around five million acres that are inadequately stocked with desirable species of trees.

FORAGE TESTING
Knowing the quality of your forage will allow you to do a better job of feeding your cows.

The forage testing service provided by Mississippi State University will show moisture content, protein, crude fiber and estimated net energy of the forage. See your county agent for details.

MAKE LAND PRODUCE
Around five million acres of Mississippi land have been classed as idle. We can and should put every acre to full use!

Forage and feed crop production to support our livestock can easily be doubled. Row crop production is far below capacity. Old methods are no longer enough to meet today's competitive farm situation. We must put all of our technology to work in stepping up production.

Lime can still be spread in time to benefit next year's crops. On soils below a pH of 6.0 liming is an easy way to increase soybean yields as much as 10 bushels per acre, cotton yields a half bale to the acre and corn 30 bushels to the acre.

The lime should be applied before spring land preparation begins so that it will become well mixed with the soil and do the most good.

TOP DRESSING

Many of our winter pastures are beginning to show a need for additional nitrogen top dressing according to John S. Smith, County Agent.

The recent dramatic increase in the cost of nitrogen fertilizer has apparently caused some farmers to delay top dressing. It is true we should be more frugal with nitrogen applications and apply only what is actually needed by the growing plants. However, we must give our grazing crops close to one pound of actual nitrogen for each day of grazing for them to produce profitably. The greatest cost for winter grazing has already been expended for seedbed preparation, seeding, etc., so adequate nitrogen must be provided to assure good forage production and protect this investment.

Even with the high nitrogen costs, the cheapest source of protein available is still from well fertilized winter grazing crops plus the tremendous amount of energy the grazing animal received from succulent winter forage. Nitrogen applied now will help build a backlog of forage during any good growing condition that occurs. Most fields will need about 60 pounds of actual nitrogen (200 pounds of ammonium nitrate or 150 pounds of 45 percent urea.) These rates of nitrogen should not create any problem with nitrate poisoning provided a balanced fertilizer program has been followed. During top dressing avoid potholes or any areas holding water that could accumulate nitrate. Also, run-off areas adjacent to ponds should not be fertilized unless sodded areas were left adjacent to the ponds. Many Animal Scientists feel that the nitrate cattle can get from drinking out of potholes or ponds where nitrogen fertilizer has been carelessly applied may be contributing substantially to the nitrate poisoning problem.

It is a good management practice to provide supplemental grain and/or hay to cattle grazing ryegrass during periods when poor growing conditions exist. Nitrate problems are less likely to occur where a well balanced liming and fertilization program is followed. Under these conditions, the grazing crop has the ability to recover quickly from stress. Wise use of nitrogen fertilizer is necessary during the winter and early spring if our grazing crops are to produce their potential profit.

V. A. News

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — I draw compensation from the Veterans Administration for a service connected disability. If I get a job, will it affect my compensation?

A — Not unless your VA rating is based on unemployment and you are rated 100 percent disabled.

Q — Is my deceased husband, a World War II veteran, eligible for a headstone?

A — Yes, headstones are available for any deceased veteran whose last period of military service was terminated honorably. Suggest you apply to the Veterans Administration, since this program was transferred from the Army Sept. 1, 1973.

Q — My brother was blinded during the Vietnam War, and can't seem to get interested in living again. What is the Veterans Administration doing about young men like him?

A — VA recently entered into an agreement with the Blind Veterans Association to augment agency services to the blind. This is in addition to other agency benefits such as compensation for service connected blindness, guide dogs and electronic and mechanical aids, their repair and replacement.

Local VA News

BY
Chester L. Curvey

This is a repeat of an article that was in the Local VA News some weeks ago, but with more explanation. The reason is that I didn't get any response from the article and I feel there are some it will apply to.

Any Veteran who is carrying NSLI Insurance and becomes totally disabled after the date of application for the Insurance and remains disabled for six months prior to their 65th birthday and while the insurance is on a premium paying basis, may request a waiver of premiums.

When the insured becomes totally disabled and requests a waiver of premiums he must continue to pay the monthly premiums until the waiver has been approved of the insurance policy will lapse. He will not be required to pay premiums as long as he is disabled. The premium waiver will not cause a reduction in the face value of the policy. If the premiums on a term insurance are being waived at the time it is being converted to a permanent plan insurance, premiums will also be waived on the permanent plan insurance. Dividends will also continue to be paid on the insurance providing it is a participating insurance policy, while the waiver is in effect.

Although Public Law 93-92 became effective Sept. 1, 1973 the Veterans Administration has not issued final instructions as to when they will be able to comply with the Law. This article is just to make the new beneficiaries aware of and be prepared for The Veterans Health Care Expansion Act Of 1973 when it is activated.

This new law provides for medical care from non-veterans Administrations sources for certain New Beneficiaries. These new beneficiaries are the 100-percent service-connected disabled. These veterans should retain all their paid receipts for medical expenses for care provided in non-V.A. sources. These receipts may be subject to reimbursement on a basis of 75 percent of the allowable charge after a fiscal year deductible of $50 for a single person to $100 for a family, has been met.

This appears to be the same procedure that is used by retired and active duty personnel when military facilities are not readily available so they use Civilian Health and Medical Programs Uniformed Services (Champus). Since I forgot to wish all of you nice people Merry Christmas in last week's article let me wish you a Happy New Year in this article.

Governor's News Summary

Governor Waller has announced the approval of 68 grants totalling more than $800,000 to local and State criminal justice agencies across Mississippi.

The grants, supporting a wide-range of juvenile delinquency prevention, court and law improvement projects, were approved by the Commission on Law Enforcement Assistance, supervisory board responsible for coordinating Mississippi's participation in federal Crime Control Act funding.

Governor Waller, who met briefly with the Commission, said that the State's law enforcement assistance program must explore ways of providing more support to areas of adjudication and related court system improvement. He urged increased emphasis on programs and projects which meet criminal justice system deficiencies encountered after arrest of the suspect.

Since 1969, Mississippi has received approximately $23.2 million in Crime Control Act funds, with a major portion of this expended in programs to basically improve police services.

State and local officials from the Tishomingo County area met recently with Park Commission representatives to go over Phase I development plans for Tishomingo State Park.

Dr. Bobby King, State Park Commissioner stated, "The major purpose of the meeting was to brief the key officials on the $370,000 construction program which has just gotten underway at Tishomingo State Park, and to present future conceptual plans for the park."

"The construction program now underway when completed will provide a new group camp for the park replacing the existing camp facility constructed by the Civilian Conservation Corps during the late '30's," Dr. King said. "The new group facility will provide six spacious group camp cabins and a modern cafeteria building all of which will feature central air and heating systems."

Jane Wyatt says:

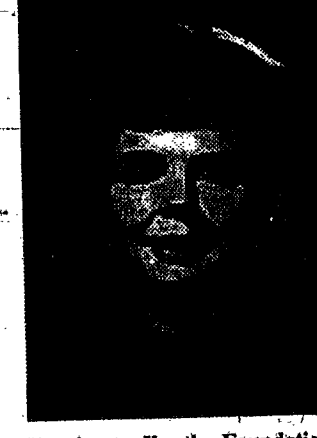

"Some say that any program designed to lower our infant mortality rate will fail, because the problem is too complex. But we know that medical science can meet the challenge. Our goal is good health care for every woman and her unborn child."

"Well, with the March of Dimes, I sometimes feel like a pioneer. We've been on the frontier of treating birth defects and now we're blazing new trails in prevention. So much can be done through new, improved techniques of perinatal care."

"We are aware that we must deal with the problems of the urban and rural poor. But we also realize that birth defects are no respecter of great wealth or social station. Our aim is to provide truly equal opportunity in medical care."

"You know, I'm the Foundation's first woman trustee. Well, 'Mother Knows Best,' and I'm also fortunate to know the joy of having three healthy grandchildren around me. At the March of Dimes, we try to help others less fortunate share that joy."

"For every 1,000 live births in this country, 19 babies die before their first birthday. In many communities the rate is even higher. Yet we have reduced it to 15 per 1,000 white babies in Westchester County, N.Y. Why can't we do that well everywhere?"

NEWS FROM THE CAPITOL

from U.S. SENATOR
JOHN STENNIS

Senator John C. Stennis said he opposes restrictions on agricultural exports in connection with the energy crisis and called for the United States to attain total independence from all other nations for its energy and energy sources.

In remarks before the annual meeting of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation in Jackson, Stennis said, "I believe that American agriculture is standing on the brink of a new era of expansion. Applying sanctions on export of our agricultural products as a means of dealing with the Arab nations is not a sound course of action and I totally oppose it."

"The American farmer is the man who takes the chances in crop production he continued, 'and when there are opportunities for regard, he is entitled to them.'"

Senator Stennis pointed out that the world's food supply and the fuel crisis are all part of the same problem; that petroleum fuels are essential for large scale agriculture production and that there is worldwide need for the food. "We are the greatest producer of the food reserve that the rest of the world must have to live," he said. "There are only four nations that produce substantially more food than they need themselves — the U.S., Canada, Australia and Argentina. We export more than the other three together."

"Farmers must have a high priority in fuels, and we must find ways to get the needed petroleum to the farmer," Stennis said.

Stennis urged all farm organizations to keep the problem of fuel priorities for farms, and the need for farm exports, before all policy-making groups, including Congress.

The Senator spoke out strongly in favor of U.S. independence of other nations for oil. "I want with the utmost vigor," he said, "that we must attain complete independence from all nations for our energy. For us to relax, if the Arab nations renew oil shipments to us would lay the groundwork for much graver blackmail a few years hence. Total independence must be our goal and we can attain it."

Stennis advocated development of coal and nuclear energy, increased attention to our own oil resources and a strong and active research program to develop new sources of energy, including oil shale and the use of solar and geothermal power.

Commenting on the Watergate case, Senator Stennis said that it confronts our country with a challenge as serious as any in the last 100 years. Referring to demands for impeachment, he said, "I reject this call. To my mind there is not enough hard proof now to be a proper basis of impeachment, much less a conviction of wrongdoing. Except for the statement of one witness who has pleaded guilty to a crime connected with Watergate, most of the accusations are hearsay, innuendo, inference or supposition. All this loose talk about impeachment or resignation is bad for the country. So I say with all the emphasis I can command, let us first get the controlling facts! Spoken words, and pictures, and polls seen by chiefs of state or heads of nations around the world does our country great harm all over the world."

"There is a need to dispose of all the so-called Watergate matters, and move forward on the grave problems confronting us — the energy problems, and searching for sounder policies in fiscal affairs, so that inflation and confiscatory taxation will not destroy our economy."

CURLERS & COMMUNICATION

Communication can mean almost anything to anybody, especially when it comes to communication in a marriage. "Pass the butter" is communication. That is about as far as many married couples get. Also, "My Mother always said you were a louse" is communication. Such a statement may be a fact, but it is most certainly designed to cut deeply and cause an uproar.

How people communicate is the important message. A good many students of marriage have found that couples who have rich and growing marriages learn to follow an important procedure. They learn to express any persistent feeling they have without being critical of the partner.

With some information about the emotional needs of people, and with some practice, a husband or wife can learn to express their feelings without hurting the other. For the wife who comes to the breakfast table in bedraggled robe and curlers, a husband could tell her how awful she looks, or he could say "You know, I find I'm annoyed at the way you look in the morning."

That statement will get a response. It may not be nice. She may say, "You're some sight yourself." However, the husband in this case has only pointed out how he is feeling. It gives the wife an opportunity to think of his needs and consider changing her behavior. With some practice she probably will say, "I didn't realize that my appearance in the morning was that important to you."

The voicing of feelings without being critical of the partner can be the most important lesson a married couple can learn. This lesson puts many people on the road toward richness and permanence in marriage.

The fondue pot is a versatile, "do your own thing" piece of equipment which can be used for breakfast, dinner, supper and informal parties. It adapts to large and small budgets.

Many types of food may be used in fondue menus. Try cooking a variety of foods in your fondue pot. Some suggestions are:

Dunk tiny meatballs in hot barbeque sauce.
Dunk frozen fruits, such as cherries, in hot fudge sauce.

Cook tiny fruit tarts in hot oil.
Dunk cubes of ham or luncheon meat in cheese fondue.
Cook little weiners in hot oil.
Dunk chunks of pineapple, banana or dried figs in fudge sauce.

Dip raw cauliflower or carrot slices in cheese fondue.
Dunk sugar cookies in hot lemon pudding.

Pediatrician Praises New Book About Birth Defects

by Henry L. Nadler, M.D.
Chairman, Department of Pediatrics
Northwestern University

Every doctor who has attended at a delivery knows that the first question a mother usually asks is whether her baby is all right. In 15 out of 16 births, we can say happily that her newborn looks sound and healthy.

But when a mother learns her baby has a birth defect, other anxious questions arise: "Why did this happen to me?" "What did I do wrong?" "Will my child be able to lead a normal life?" "Does this mean we can't have a normal child?"

In a recently published book, aptly titled "Is My Baby All Right?", Dr. Virginia Appgar and Joan Beck discuss the latest information on the common problems, causes, treatment, and prevention of birth defects.

It is scientifically accurate, easily readable, and offers a concise presentation of human biology and its relationship to birth defects. The authors have intended the book for parents, prospective parents, families, students, and volunteers who work with children.

"Is My Baby All Right?" opens with an explanation of how life begins and the influence of chromosome pairing and cell division in causing birth defects.

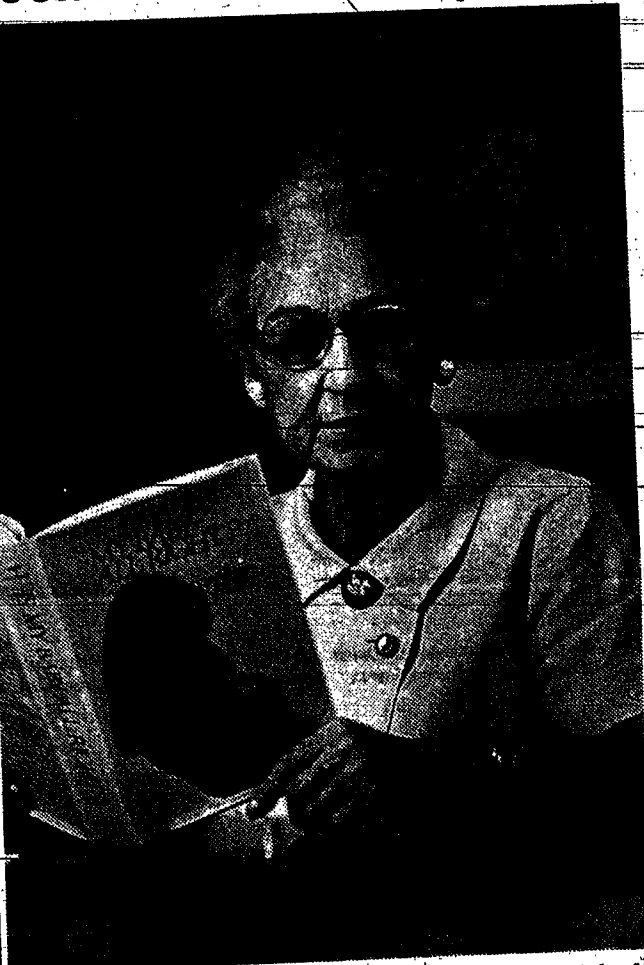

Informal Guide

The book covers many timely subjects: life before birth; what can go wrong and why during pregnancy and birth; steps that prospective parents can follow to improve their chances for having healthy children; medications the pregnant woman should avoid; genetic counseling; and sources of help for children with birth defects. There are 25 chapters on birth defects that occur most frequently.

In addition to sound clinical data, the authors present with skill and sensitivity the anxieties that confront parents whose child has a significant birth defect.

Throughout the book, in fact, they focus upon the impact a birth defect has upon the child's family. This approach gives it a broader dimension than if it were written only as a scientific record. Dr. Appgar, internationally recognized specialist in the problems of the newborn, created the "Appgar Score." This method is used in modern hospitals the world over to evaluate a baby's general health at birth.

As vice president for medical affairs of The National Foundation-March of Dimes, she works closely with experts who are examining the causes, treatment, and prevention of birth defects.

Joan Beck, daily features editor of the Chicago Tribune and a nationally syndicated columnist, has written extensively about child care and research in the field of early mental development.

The whole field of genetics has advanced so rapidly that, as a pediatrician and genetic counselor, I have often wanted to recommend a single, comprehensive account to families and health professionals involved with birth defects.

"Is My Baby All Right?" published by Trident Press, is a fine source of reference for anyone concerned with the health of our children.

Dr. Nadler, a March of Dimes grantee, also is Chief of Staff at Children's Memorial Hospital, Chicago.

Methaqualones Growing In Popularity

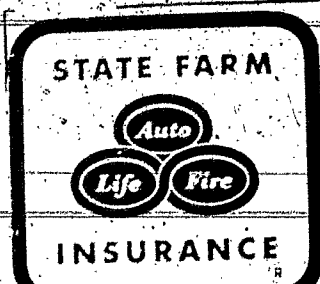

The November issue of the Journal of the Mississippi State Medical Association carried an article by Dr. John F. Russell, M.D., Director of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Drug Abuse Center in Gulfport.

The article, entitled Methaqualones, Heroin for Lovers, gives the history and a study of the origin of the drug named methaqualone.

Dr. Russell said that this particular drug has become more and more popular as an abused drug in Mississippi.

His article was written in an attempt to alert both physicians and the young adult population to the dangers and problems involved with abuse of the drug.

NEW A.D.—Dr. William D. McCain, right, president of the University of Southern Mississippi, congratulates Roland H. Dale, left, for being named athletic director at USM. Adding their welcome are Paul Holmes, second from left, subcommittee chairman; and C. L. Dews, chairman of the Continuity Committee. Dale, an assistant football coach at Ole Miss for 12 years, comes to USM from Southeastern Louisiana State, where he was head football coach. He will work in the office with USM Athletic Director Reed Green, who will leave the athletic field on Dec. 31, 1974, to devote full-time to duties as administrative assistant to President McCain in charge of public relations.

Dale Named USM Athletic Director

Roland H. Dale, former University of Southern Mississippi assistant football coach, will return to USM as Director of Intercollegiate Athletics, President William D. McCain announced today. His appointment to the post was given official sanction Dec. 20 by the Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning, Dr. McCain said.

Head football coach at Southeastern Louisiana University of Hammond for the past two seasons, Dale was line coach at Southern for three years beginning with the 1955 season.

During the first year of his new tenure Dale, 46, will work in the office with the current and only other full-time athletic director Southern has ever had, Reed Green.

Mr. Green, now serving in a dual capacity, will leave the athletic area on Dec. 31, 1974. He will then devote his efforts to the job of Administrative Assistant (to the President) in Charge of Public Relations. Green, a member of the staff since 1934, has been athletic director since 1949. He was head coach and athletic director from 1937 until leaving the coaching field after the '48 season.

"I appreciate very much the confidence of Dr. McCain, Coach Green and the Athletic Continuity Committee," Dale said. "I have many pleasant memories of my coaching days at Southern and I look forward to rejoining the Athletic Department and being a part of the tremendous program it now enjoys."

"I leave Southeastern with mixed emotions. I have enjoyed very much my association for two years with the administration, the players and the fans."

"Coach Dale has been in athletics a long time and has been highly successful," Green said of the man who is to succeed him. "I am fully confident he will do well in his new position. I believe the University is fortunate to have obtained the services of a man of his caliber."

Prior to going to Southeastern, Coach Dale was an assistant coach at the University of Mississippi for 12 years beginning with the 1960 season. He was an assistant at Tulane for the 1959 campaign after being in private business in Jackson for one year after leaving Southern.

He first came to Southern from Gulfport High School, where he was head coach and athletic director for two years. After his first season at Gulfport he was named Coach of the Year in the Big Eight Conference.

Prior to that he had been an assistant coach at Greenwood High School and Jones County Junior College.

As a player he lettered four times and was team captain in his final season at the University of Mississippi. He played in the Blue-Gray Game and spent one season in professional football with the Washington Redskins.

Rawls Tapped For Delta State College

J.W. Rawls, one of the top running backs in the Mississippi Junior College Conference this season, has signed a football scholarship to attend Delta State College.

"J.W. is a real good inside runner," said DSC head coach and athletic director Horace McCool. "Although he missed several games this year, we still felt as if he was one of the truly outstanding runners in the JC league."

Rawls, a 6-1, 175 pound tailback from Hancock, helped lead Coach John Russell's Pearl River team to a 9-1-1 record, including the South Mississippi JC chamionship. Although missing several games with an injury, J. W. still rushed for 703 yards and scored 42 points this season. He picked up 154 yards rushing in the overall state championship game against Mississippi Delta. His freshman totals included 886 yards rushing and another 42 points. Post-season honors included All-State and honorable mention All-American along with playing in the Mississippi Junior College All-Star Game. Rawls, the son of Willie Rawls, will major in Law Enforcement while attending Delta State.

SIGNS WITH DELTA STATE—J. W. Rawls signs a football scholarship to attend Delta State College. A tailback, J. W. helped lead Pearl River Junior College to a 9-1-1 record this season.

Eric Lymuel Signs With Delta State College

Eric Lymuel of Bay St. Louis and Pearl River Junior College has signed a football scholarship to attend Delta State College in Cleveland, Miss. It was announced this week by DSC athletic director and head football coach Horace McCool.

"We are real pleased to sign a youngster with the talent Eric possesses," said McCool. "I know he will be a big asset to both our football program and our fine college."

McCool believes Lymuel is capable of playing several positions in the defensive secondary. "This is a versatile young man," he noted.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Johnson of Bay St. Louis, Eric played in the recent Mississippi Junior College All-Star game.

He won two letters in football while attending PRJC and also picked up one monogram in track.

Lymuel was an outstanding high school performer for Coach J.E. Loiacano while attending Bay Senior High where he won two letters in football, three in basketball, two in baseball, and two in track.

He was chosen as the outstanding running back in the Jaycee Bowl in football and has been selected "Player of the Week" in both football and basketball.

A Catholic, Eric plans to major in Criminal Justice while attending Delta State College.

Two former Bay Senior High athletes have been most successful at Delta State in recent years.

High jumper Walden Curry has been named to the All-America track team five times (twice in indoor track and three times in outdoor track) and senior tailback Nate Fairconnetue led the Statesmen in rushing and scoring this season to establish several Gulf South Conference and Delta State records.

Last Tuesday was Christmas, a time awaited by both young and old. The young received toys from Santa and teenagers received their first hunting guns. The older folks with days off took to the woods to hunt and to the streams for fishing.

Both hunting and fishing were good during the holidays which end with New Year's.

A number of young boys received their first gun for Christmas. It is a good safety precaution for a father to take his son on his first hunting trip. Like father, like son is the old expression. Boys can learn a lot about hunting from their fathers. Listening helps a lot too.

More land has been purchased for an addition to the Pearl River Wildlife Management area in St. Tammany Parish, according to the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission.

The new land consists of hardwood bottom lands, sloughs and bayous which host an abundance of fish and wildlife. Pearl River is only a 30-minute drive from the N.O. area.

According to W.L. & F. director J. Burton Angelle the purchase was made under the agency's land acquisition program which "seeks to purchase wild life lands while such lands are available and at a price the commission can afford. Sports men of this area will also benefit by the purchase."

The first split of the duck season opens in Louisiana this Saturday. Hunters are anxious to get into the blinds as a good season has been predicted. There is no better duck hunting anywhere than in the Louisiana marshes. Duck hunts are being planned for next week it was reported. Men who have hunted the marsh for years are always ready to return to hunt the prized birds.

Bryan Haggerty spent the Christmas Holidays with his family in New Orleans. Bryan is in the Air Force stationed at Eglin Field in Florida.

Bob McCluskey said he spent the weekend in Florida. Besides the fish he caught, he was bragging about a nice rat red he landed.

Had a Christmas treat when I visited N.A.S.A. out at the test site, the guest of Industrial Contractors. Saw things unbelievable. Met a lot of sportsmen we don't know about. For instance:

Louie W. Deal who lives at Picayune, Miss. catches bass and perch. Accomplished something when he out caught Gene Leuders on perch. Some were as big as your hand.

Dallas Grittens and wife Candy are from Idaho Falls, Idaho. They live at Pass Christian. Both have been converted to catching speckle trout since moving South. Really good fishermen.

Don Wodjacz who lives at Diamondhead is a mechanical engineering technician with the army engineers. He fishes, boats and airplane flying is his hobby. Let's get together Don, I mean for fishing.

Bob Miller is a structural engineer for Industrial Contractors. Bob is a good fisherman. How about trying to catch some bass, Bob?

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McCall of Oklahoma are visiting Herman McCall for the holidays. There will be some fishing done by this group.

Was a pleasure talking to John W. Luaders, father of Gene Luaders, at Point Pleasant, New Jersey. Mr. Luaders doesn't do much fishing but loves to crab. Will be good come summer time, John.

Willie Bordage really tore up the speckles in Bayou Caddy last week, caught some beauties. Willie is one of the Bordage Brothers. Enough said when it comes to catching fish.

August Rauxet has been catching some nice speckles up Jourdan River by trolling lately. August is one of the old timers at this game.

Understand that Mr. and Mrs. John Scafide, Sr. visited their daughter Doodle, for the Christmas holidays. John has also been catching speckles up Jourdan River lately.

Irene and Buck Tadlock and Mary and Robert Brewer who own homes in Shoreline Park are all good fishermen. They go on every occasion and usually bring home oodles of the finny tribe. Nothing is more pleasure than fishing, they claim.

Wonder why Walter Crawley hasn't been hunting or fishing lately? He loves both sports. Walter hails from Waveland.

Looks bad for oysters this year according to Brother Pierre who is one of our best oyster tongs. There is no tonging allowed between the bridges, out front. The oyster reefs have been reshelled but there are signs, no tonging. That must be it.

John Genin received his diploma in law Thursday from Ole Miss. He will return to the Bay Saturday a full fledged lawyer. Just another of our younger folks who made good.

Best of luck, John, for a brilliant career. All work and no play makes John a dull boy. Not so with this John, he fishes and plays golf as pastimes.

Had a Christmas card from Capt. Jake of Texas. He used to be out at Bayou La Croix Marina. Sends regards to his friends. Doing O.K. he said, but misses the Gulf Coast.

Sorry to hear that Freddie Lane has been hospitalized. Understand he is doing better.

State Agencies Received More Than 68 Grants

Governor Waller has announced the approval of 68 grants totalling more than $600,000 to local and State criminal justice agencies across Mississippi.

The grants, supporting a wide-range of juvenile delinquency prevention, court and police improvement projects, were approved by the Commission of Law Enforcement Assistance, supervisory board responsible for coordinating Mississippi's participation in federal Crime Control Act funding.

Governor Waller, who met briefly with the Commission, said that the State's law enforcement assistance program must explore ways of providing more support to areas of adjudication and related court system improvement. He urged increased emphasis on programs and projects which meet criminal justice system deficiencies encountered after arrest of the suspect.

Since 1969, Mississippi has received approximately $23.2 million in Crime Control Act funds, with a major portion of this expended in programs to basically improve police services. The Governor urged future program development based on total system need, including the administration of justice and meaningful rehabilitative services for offenders.

Sullivan Promoted To Brig. General

Governor William L. Waller last week announced the appointment of Charles L. Sullivan of Clarksdale to the post of Assistant Adjutant General of the Mississippi Air National Guard and the promotion of Sullivan to the rank of Brigadier General.

Governor Waller pinned the one-star insignia of brigadier general on Sullivan in ceremonies at the Capitol attended by Major General E. A. "Beb" Turnage, the Adjutant General, and other state military officials.

Sullivan succeeds Major General Delos H. Burks of Picayune who recently retired. A long-time Guardsman, the former lieutenant governor was on the State Headquarters Staff of the Air National Guard as Director of Operations. He will remain on the State Headquarters staff.

He said the group was attempting to raise $500 to buy a training mannequin used for cardio-pulmonary resuscitation.

Supervisor Ladner, who said he had brought the matter before the board earlier for consideration, made a motion to support the bill. The motion passed unanimously.

Attorney Cornelius Ladner appeared representing a group of Lakeshore residents with a complaint of bad road conditions. The board set a Jan. 8 date for a meeting with the group.

In other business the board accepted Mrs. Eve McDonald's recommendation to appoint Donald Mauffray as director of recreation for the Senior Citizens organization.

Accepted a plat for Port Bienville following a County Planning Commission recommendation, but did not accept the roads.

Accepted by unanimous motion nine resolutions submitted by the Port and Harbor.

Early gliders had to be towed by early cars to get off the ground. They were really up in the air.

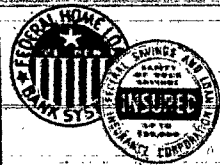

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK Bill Schaefer is another of our local fishermen. He likes everything pertaining to fishing and goes on every occasion.

Pictures for Kantcha Ketchum column are taken by my two bits camera, nobody has broken it yet.

We all had a Merry Christmas. Let's hope for a Happy New Year and plenty fishing and hunting for years to come.
